What is a Will?

A Will is a document that allows an individual to put in writing how they wish to distribute their possessions when they pass away. For the Will to be valid it needs to be put in writing and executed in a specific manner.

What happens to my assets if I do not have a Will?

If you do not have a Will and pass away (this is known as intestate), any assets owned in your sole name may not automatically belong to your spouse, partner or next of kin.

Who can benefit from a Will?

Everyone can benefit from a Will, particularly those who:

- own property
- are holders of bank accounts, savings accounts, debentures and pre-paid cards
- have a partner
- have children
- anyone going through a separation or a divorce
- own a business or shares in a company
- own cryptoassets
- hold digital assets such as Google photo, iclouds, Facebook, Instagram, Twitter etc.
